

VIRGINIA'S NEW SEASIDE RESORT

Pine Beach, on Hampton Roads, Wins Many Admirers.

AN ELEGANT CREATION

A Large Amount of Money Laid Out to Make It the Best of All.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) PINE BEACH, VA., July 29.—The magic wand has touched Pine Beach and Dame Nature, heartily responding to the overtone rising amid the clamor of her beauty and natural endowments, proclaims not without cause that she is the ultima thule of season resorts.

To the south of the Point stands as a sentinel of the mirroring dunes of 181 and 1865. It was here that the desperate struggle between the Merrimack and Monitor took place, and many thousands of tourists monthly visit the spot, many of whom live, and who are wont to rehearse the carnage and death.

Due east, only a half mile, one may see the site of the Jamestown Tercentenary Exposition, which is rapidly being developed. Hundreds and scores of laborers are clearing the way for future buildings, that will do credit to the massive and enduring architecture of the past. The site is practically surrounded by the waters of Hampton Roads. Looking across this broad expanse lies the famous Fortress Monroe, the cynosure of the naval world. Sweeping the eye to the left is the beautiful Newport News wharf, to the right is Old Point Comfort. The National Soldiers' Home, Hampton and Phoebus are points of great interest to the visitor and tourist.

In a line, the picture, especially at night, presents a background in which are studded countless stars, as the electric illumination sparkles through curtained ether.

While all these may and will instruct the visitor to Pine Beach, it is the immediate point and location that will entice, entertain and hold the stranger.

The Pine Beach Hotel is singular. No building of its kind may be found on the Atlantic seaboard. It is brand new, spick and span, large, spacious, cool, convenient and inspiring to the seeker of health and recreation.

Between three and four hundred guests may be easily accommodated. Its architecture is enough colonial to make it modern and is furnished consistently throughout in mahogany, birch and Flemish oak. Rooms are single and en suite, and every modern convenience known will here be found. Its sanitation is the result of scientific labor and will favorably compare with the most expensive hotels in the country. This is a critical review of this feature of the resort.

Amusements are the order of the day at Pine Beach. The aged, the adolescent, the child may be entertained here.
From within the beautiful walls of the spacious ball-room to the roof garden and the Rathskeller, King Carnival plays a high hand, and dull moments come to one only after he takes his departure.
Even the festive "shoot the shoots," the "merry-go-round," the "Ferris-wheel," the "loop the loop" are all here.

The guests of this magnificent resort are given free telephone service to Norfolk and nearby places. With the telegraph the outside world is reached as easily as if you were in your own home town. A splendid mail service has been established.

The culinary department bespeaks the ability of a splendid steward and an efficient chef.

The grounds around the hotel are nearing completion. A 1,000-foot board walk on the water's front is now ready for the public, which will accommodate several thousand sightseers. The bathing at Pine Beach creates a thirst for the "briny breeze" and you are loath to leave the white caps and refreshing billows. No underwear exists, and small children are absolutely safe while in the surf.

A pavilion in all probability will connect the hotel with the Exposition Grounds. Pine Beach is twenty minutes ride from Norfolk by electric train. The service thereon is fast and comfortable.

A point of national interest is that the general offices of the Jamestown Exposition are located at the Pine Beach Ho-

TABLEAUX VIVANTS AT BRANDON HOTEL

A Bright Entertainment of the Aid of Episcopal Churches.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) BASIC CITY, VA., July 29.—One of the largest entertainments of the season took place in the ball-room of the Brandon on Wednesday night. Mrs. W. Aspinwall, of Washington, showed great energy and ability in getting it up, the object being aid to the Episcopal building fund, of Basic. The devoted little band of Episcopalians in Basic gave liberal assistance to the ladies of the Brandon. A delicious evening for the guests was the result.

"Tableaux vivants" and music composed the programme. The beauty and daintiness of the children made charming pictures. In "Seven Sunflowers Hanging on the Wall," the flower-like faces of the little tots contrasted with the coquettish smiles of young girls, with a happy result.

The music, furnished by Bagle, talent, was of a high order. Delicious refreshments were served after the performance.
Then chairs were cleared away and an impromptu dance wound up a most delightful evening.

The bracing air of the last few days has made horseback riding very popular.
Among the foremost of the equestrians of the Brandon is Mr. James Gordon of Richmond, son of Virginia's famous criminal lawyer, Mr. H. M. Smith.
One morning of this week a party, consisting of Mr. Smith, Mr. Arnold, Mr.
Keeley, Mr. Aspinwall, Mr. Moseley, Dahney, of Louisville, and others, of Richmond, started off for a ride, and covered sixteen or seventeen miles of picturesque mountain roads, taking in Baker's Spring and other points of interest.

Wednesday morning Miss Rosa Mose-ley gave a delightful card party. The prizes were extremely pretty, and were won by Miss Elizabeth Cheney, Miss Katherine Robinson, Mr. Robert Crowder and Mr. William Tompkins.

The August crowd of visitors who have engaged rooms at the Brandon threaten to fill it to overflowing. But, like the old omnibus, there is always room for one more at Hotel Brandon, with delicious surroundings and a warm welcome from the charming hostess.

The latest arrivals are Mr. L. G. Gordon, New York; Miss Agnes Gordon Moon, Charlottesville; Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Charlesville; Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Elsom, Schuyler, Va.; Rev. E. Lee, Shepherds-town, Va.; Mr. Ennis Garrigill, Houston, Texas; Mrs. Ennis Garrigill, Houston, Texas; Miss Sarah A. Maury, Richmond; Mr.
R. Peters, Atlanta, Ga.; J. B. Waddill,

Richmond; Mrs. Willis Tyler, Luray; Dr.
E. E. Hancock, J. H. Stoddard, Syracuse;

THE BRIDGE.

A Merry Crowd Fills the Apple-dore and Pavilion Hotels.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
NATURAL BRIDGE, VA., July 29.— Above the arch, over Lost River, are these words: "Whosoever drinks here, shall return." This has truly been verified during the past week, as old friends gathered each other, having returned to drink again the life-giving and health-giving water at the Bridge.

At the glorious days of July draw to a close, they have brought many guests to the Bridge, for the Apple-dore and the Pavilion Hotels are filled to overflowing, and many rooms in the Jefferson Cottage are booked for the reason by those who want first choice.

There are veranda days, when the room is shut in and the guests shut themselves out for the morning and evening delightfully cool, and the night well, everybody is rested in the morning—which means all sleep.

Impromptu card parties are seen almost any hour of the day, on the wide verandas, where groups of congenial society meet to play bridge, euchre, while others engage in the social talk. A professional party was one of the enjoyable features of the week. The party was held on the second veranda of the Apple-dore Hotel. The game was played with zeal and earnestness. The first prize was won by Mr. R. S. Cohn, Norfolk. The consolation fell to Mr.
James P. Doan, Richmond, Va.

Thursday was a red letter day for the Bridge, for the early morning train brought nearly 60 visitors from Petersburg, Va., and a delightful day it was.
The dance Friday evening was a most enjoyable affair, and conspicuous among the dancers were Miss Champlain and Mr. Hill. Miss Gertrude Champlain and Mr. Gilmore, Miss Brickenborough and Mr. Elliott, Miss Cohn and Mr. McVey.

Knew Napoleon at St. Helena.

There are very few people now alive who saw and conversed with the first Napoleon.
The St. Helena Guardian records the death of a Mrs. Mary Smith at the age of ninety.
In her girlhood she was a member of the household staff at Longwood, the home of the exiled emperor. According to the Guardian she "knew" both Napoleon and his jailer, Governor Sir Hudson Lowe. On the lovely little Atlantic rock every body must needs know everybody else, and doubtless Napoleon and Sir Hudson did exchange a word or two with her occasionally. Some twenty or thirty years ago she still a fair number of people living in St. Helena who remembered Napoleon, their reminiscences of his last years would have made an interesting book.

It's Matinee Hair in London.

A writer in the Gentlewoman is on the track of new trouble. "We hear," she says, "a great deal of the matinee hair, but what about the matinee hair? One can, perhaps, ask a lady to remove her hat, but one dare not ask her to remove her hirsute obstruction as well; and yet, between the hair worn before the present fashion and the matinee hair there is little to choose, at any rate from the point of view of the theatre-goer seated behind a lady."

POEMS YOU OUGHT TO KNOW

Whatever your occupation may be, and however crowded your hours with affairs, do not fail to secure at least a few minutes every day for refreshment of your inner life with a bit of poetry.—Professor Charles Elliot Norton.

"A Small Sweet Idyll." (From the Princess.) By LORD TENNYSON.

These lines are an extract from the long poem, "The Princess," by Lord Tennyson, whose autograph, portrait and biographical sketch have already appeared in this series.
The last two lines are considered one of the greatest examples of "onomatopoeia" in the English language. They do indeed give a wonderful suggestion of the sounds which they describe.

COME down, O maid, from yonder mountain height; What pleasure lives in height (the shepherd sang) In height and cold, the splendour of the hills?
But cease to move so near the heavens, and cease, To glide a sunbeam by the blasted Pine,
To sit a star upon the sparkling spire;
And come, for Love is the valley, come,
For Love is the valley, come down And find him; by the happy threshold, he,
Or hand in hand with Plenty in the maize, Or red with spirited purple of the vats, Or foxlike in the vine; nor cares to walk With Death and Morning on the silver horns.
Nor wilt thou snare him in the white ravine, Nor find him dropped upon the firns of ice,
That huddling slant in furrow-cloven falls,
To roll the torrent out of dusky doors:
But follow: let the torrent dash thee down To find him in the valley; let the wild Lean-headed Eagles yelp alone, and leave The monstrous ledges there to slope, and spill Their thousand wreaths of dangling water-smoke, That like a broken purpose waste in the air:
So waste not azure; but come; for all the vales Await thee; azure pillars of the hearth Arise to thee; the children call, and I Thy shepherd pipe, and sweet is every sound, Sweeter thy voice, but every sound is sweet: Myriads of rivulets hurrying thro' the lawn,
The mourn of doves in immemorial elms,
And murmuring of innumerable bees.
